

ShopSphere Warranty Policy

Effective Date: January 1, 2026

Last Updated: January 1, 2026

1. Purpose

This Warranty Policy explains the warranty services available for products purchased through ShopSphere. Warranty coverage is generally provided by the product manufacturer unless ShopSphere expressly offers an additional seller warranty. This policy outlines customer rights, the warranty claim process, limitations, and responsibilities of all parties involved.

2. Warranty Coverage

Warranty periods vary depending on the product category, manufacturer, and brand. The applicable warranty duration is displayed on the product page or included with the product documentation. A valid proof of purchase issued by ShopSphere is required to claim warranty benefits. Warranty protection normally covers manufacturing defects and failures that occur during normal and intended use of the product.

3. Products Covered

Many electronic devices, appliances, computer accessories, and selected home products include a manufacturer warranty. Fashion items, consumables, personal care products, and other categories may not include warranty coverage unless explicitly mentioned. Customers should carefully review the warranty information provided on the respective product page before completing a purchase.

4. Exclusions

Warranty does not cover damage resulting from accidents, improper installation, misuse, unauthorized repairs, liquid exposure, electrical fluctuations, negligence, cosmetic wear and tear, or use contrary to the manufacturer's instructions. Damage caused by modifications or removal of serial numbers may also void the warranty.

5. Warranty Claim Process

Customers may initiate a warranty request by contacting ShopSphere Customer Support or the authorized manufacturer service center. Supporting documents such as the invoice, order number, serial number, photographs of the product, and a description of the issue may be requested. Additional diagnostics may be performed before a claim is approved.

6. Repair, Replacement and Resolution

Depending on the manufacturer's warranty terms and product condition, an approved warranty claim may result in repair, replacement, replacement with an equivalent model, or any other remedy permitted under the applicable warranty. Resolution timelines depend on spare part availability, technical evaluation, and the manufacturer's service network.

7. Customer Responsibilities

Customers are responsible for using products according to the manufacturer's instructions, preserving proof of purchase, backing up personal data before submitting electronic devices for repair, and packaging products securely whenever shipment to a service center is required. ShopSphere is not responsible for data loss occurring during repair or replacement.

8. Limitation of Liability

Warranty benefits are limited to the remedies provided by the manufacturer or ShopSphere, as applicable. Except where prohibited by law, neither ShopSphere nor the manufacturer shall be liable for indirect, incidental, consequential, or special damages arising from product failure, including loss of profits, business interruption, or loss of stored data.

9. Policy Updates and Contact

ShopSphere reserves the right to amend this Warranty Policy periodically. The latest version will always be available on the ShopSphere platform. Customers requiring assistance with warranty eligibility or claim status may contact ShopSphere Customer Support through the Help Center.